BIOGRAPHY

Sundri Feeling : Subtle and Invigorating

Pop Maloya World Jazz from Reunion island.

A self-produced artist, an outstanding composer, a voice that carries the soul in its most secret entrenchments ... Sundri Feeling embodies the conscious possession of a fate unsealed by the painful inheritances of generations of women who came before her.

With her new album called “Sundri”, she intends to pay tribute to illustrious pioneers who inspired this personal and artistic momentum, experienced on her island and motherland.

Anne Mousse, first woman born on Reunion island, meets Josephine Baker and the freed slave Tiana ... Divas or anonymous, these women represent all the strength of soul with which the artist was able to identify and which she seeks to transmit through her songs, true libertarian manifestos in favor of hope and healing love.

Vibrate in tune with the universe, and honor the beauty of femininity: These are the resources of this “métisse, ambassador, protector of the aura”. Her energy spring never runs dry. On the contrary, it is constantly renewed with each test, like a bubbling stream making its way through the obstacles of life.

Like a prodigal alchemist, she uses the sensitive crucible of her texts to gracefully transform the heaviness of silence. Her uncertain genealogical ramifications then become tree structures that she embraces like a creative demiurge. She builds her own myth, opens new possibilities on the swaying riffs of Mishko M’Ba’s bass, producer of the upcoming album.

Pop-jazzy notes and a suave voice illuminate the dark side. Grounding becomes movement and emptiness becomes fullness.
